IN AND ABOUT THE BLUFFS.

The Council Hitches Over the New Fire House Plans.

THE LICHT GUARDS DISAGREE.

Chief Walters and the Fire Committee-The Mayor's Little Veto-The Electric Motor-Manawa Incorporates.

Will Chief Walters Stand It. "Well, I suppose Chief Walters will resign now," remarked a prominent attorney yesterday, after hearing that the fire committee had reinstated Captain Rapalje, foreman of No. 1 hose house, who was discharged a few days ago by the chief of the fire department. "He can't do any less, justice to himself," he continued. "Why, if I was chief of the department and the fire committee interfered with my business in that way I would throw up my position in less time than it takes to tell it, and let them run the department as they choose, but they couldn't run over me at the same time. If a chief is not to have the full control of his men he might as well quit, for without authority be cannot hope to have discipline. Perhaps Walters will tamely submit to being run over, but I would like to see him insist on his own rights."

Mayor Rohrer was questioned regarding the matter, and expressed himself as follows: "Oh, it doesn't amount to much. Chief Walters was misled and the fire committee merely pointed out to him his mis-take. Some of his friends got hold of him and desired to make a place for an outsider. It is all over now and everything will go along smoothly."

An examination of the city ordinances shows that the chief has the appointing power, subject to the approval of the mayor and city council, but the power of discharge is vested solely in him, and he may discharge any member of the department "for any reason deemed by him good and sufficient.' That the fire committee has usurped the pre rogative, their recent action clearly shows, and virtually leaves him chief in name only. It is hoped that his pride will lead him to resent the interference, and that he will refuse to be bullyragged in any such manner.

It is generally conceded that Rapalje was unjustly discharged, but for the sake of the discipline of the fire department his rein-statement should have come directly from the chief, and not from the fire committee, or through any interference on their part. If the enief is to be held responsible for the efficient and harmonious working of the de-partment, it is certainly unjust for the fire committee to hamper him with either restrictions or appointments that are avowedly hostile to his management and the best interests of the department.

old stand. Largest trunk factory in west, The Light Guards' Election.

The result of Monday evening's election reveals a great deal of internal dissension among the Dodge Light Guards, that comes as a surprise to outsiders, who had supposed that the inside workings of that organization were as calm and screne of the proverbial summer sky. It was quite generally sup posed that when Captain Cowies resigned, on account of his inability to meet with the company except at protracted intervals, his place would be ably filled by the election of First Licutenant W. E. Aitchison to the cap-tainey.

It is therefore quite natural that, after hearing that Private William E. Foster had been elected to fill the vacancy, and that Lieutenant Aitchison had been ruthlessly snowed under by a vote of 23 to 8, the general inquiry should be, "Why is this thusly, and wherefore is the whyness of it?"

THE BEE devoted a little time to looking up the matter yesterday, and was assured by several of the members that the boys "had it in" for Aitchison, and were determined to defeat him. They allege that Aitchison attempted to rush matters to secure his own election, while they desired a postnonement until some good man could be agreed upon, and that they were compelled to elect Foster to prevent Aitchison's supporters from ridge prevent Aitchison's supporters from riding over them rough shod. It is stated that the understanding is that Foster will resign whenever a suitable man and good drillmas-ter has been found to succeed him. As For-ter is not ciaimed to be a drillmaster or properly fitted for the position, this is very probable. Lieutenant Altchison indignantly probable. Lieutenant Alterison indignantly denies that he attempted to run the election, but is not pleased with the aspect affairs have assumed. It is asserted that both Lieutenant Aitchison and Lieutenant Dixon are exceedingly warm over the result of the election, and have announced their intention of resigning.

Just why Aitchison was se unpopular among the boys is not stated, but it is hinted that the trouble which arose last winter over the purchase of overcoats for the officers has never been satisfactorily adjusted, and the poys still feel aggrieved.

Lieutenant Aitchison is a thorough soldier and a splendid drillmaster, and well qualified to succeed to the command of the company. It is quite possible that the boys have allowed a little petty spite to get the better of their judgment in the matter. It is hoped that a good drillmaster will soon be found, who will harmonize the warring factions, as it will shortly be time to leave for the an-nual encampment, and it is desired to make a good showing.

The New Town at the Lake. Manawa is the name of a new town that sprung into existence on the shores of Lake Manawa last Monday. The votes on the question of incorporation resulted in favor of it, forty vôtes being cast for it, and none against it. It is now ordered that another council shall be held a week from to-day, for the purpose of electing officers for the new corporation. It is the prevailing opinion that Colonel F. C. Reed, manager of the Manawa motor line, will be the unanimous choice for president of the board of trustees. It is stated that a move will soon be made to have the city limits extended so as to take in the new town, and make it a part of Council Bluffs. Whether or not such a move will ever materialize is a matter of

Plans For the New Fire House. The council held an adjourned meeting at 10 o'clock yesterday morning for the purpose of adopting plans for the new fire house, at the corner of Twentieth street and Broadway. There were two sets of plans by Bell & Berlinghoff and submitted Schmoock. A plan had been submitted by S. E. Maxon, but no bond accompanied it, so it was rejected. A resolution was offered that the plan of Bell & Berlieghoff be adopted, and resulted in a vote of three to two in favor of it. There were but five votes cast, Aiderman Bellinger being ab-

A wrangle then ensued as to whether or not the plan was adopted, some of the mem-bers claiming that it required a two-thirds vote, and others that a majority vote of the members present was all that was neces-sary. The matter was finally referred to the city solicitor, with instructions to report at a future meeting. Alderman Everett is the only member of the council who has as yet publicly expressed his preference in the matter, and states that he is strongly in favor of the adoption of the plans of Bell & Berlinghoff, Said he, in referring to the matter. "I am opposed to building a new fire house in that part of the city at present, as I do not think that it is necessary to establish any fire apparatus there at present. However, the council has so ordered, and I am in favor of putting up a building that will be a credit to the city in years to come. The plans offered by Bell & Berlinghoff are first class in every respect, and they have filed a bond to build the structure complete in every respect in accordance with the plans, for $5,000. I hope to see the building erected, for it would be an ornament to that part of the city." For Sale—Lot adjoining Northwestern railroad track in Bryant & Clark's add. Price, $450 cash. A. A. Clark & Co.

As Others See Us. The Chicago Dry Goods and Commercial Bulletin speaking about the improvements and prosperity of the twin cities has this to "Omaha people take a great deal of interest in the new building erected in Council Bluffs by Mr. Henry Eiseman, the leading merchant of that town. The building is modeled after the 'Famous' store in New York City, on Broadway. It will have an almost entire glass front, 67 feet in width and will be 175 feet deep, with a recess of 12 feet for ground entrance, which will be of a very novel style. It is thought that with the stock which Mr. Eiseman intends to carry, very few of the desirable traders will in future cross over to Omaha to make their purchases, as the new store will in many ways excel any of the Omaha retail stores. The location is the very best, and there seems to be no question of the success of the venture, as Mr. Eiseman and his partners have the reputation of making few, very few, mistakes."

A Rare Chance to Invest. Alderman Knepher has a fine watch dog, which he will dispose of at a very low rate. A short time ago he purchased a fine English buil dog, to act as night watchman over his residence property on Avenue E. The alderman did not have much time to devote to cultivating an acquaintance with the animal, so their friendsoip progressed slowly. Monday night he attended council meeting, and his wife was invited to spend the evening with a neighbor. About 10 o'clock word was sent to the council chamber that Mrs. Knepher had returned home, but the dog would not let her in, and she had been compelled to return to the residence of a lady friend. The councilman from the Second ward did not arrive home until after 2 o'clock, but the dog was wide awake and waiting for him. There was a picnic for nearly an hour, but it was noticeable that Knepher remained on the outside, while the dog was busy chewing a hole through the door. The disgusted owner says "the brute was a — sight uglier than if there had been a real burglar around." A small amount of cash is all that is necessary to secure the dog and a large amount of the alderman's good will.

More Light Wanted. The residents of the southeastern portion of the city voiced their claims for better street lighting before the council at its last meeting. It seems that there are about fifteen or twenty railroad tracks through that portion of the city, and the railroad yards are near at hand, so that night travel is attended with much danger. A lot of coal sheds have also been erected on Sixteenth avenue, and a lot of toughs collect there, to the infinite annoyance of all ladies who have to pass after nightfall. The police force is so small that this outlying portion cannot receive the attention it deserves at their hands, and they are of the opinion that the least that can be done for them is to supply them with ade-quate light. Alderman Lacy championed their cause, and advised taking immediate steps toward relieving them of their di-lemma. They ask for an electric light tower, and Alderman Weaver advocates placing one near the site of Stewart's packing house, Alderman Knepher wants one near Streets ville. An investigation is to be made, as Alderman Lacy is of the opinion that tower lights can be furnished much more cheaply than at the rate of $50 per month each. Several of the aldermen are in favor of erecting about three more towers if proper rates can be secured. A Great Opportunity. The greatest of sales commences this morning at the Boston Store. Bargains in dry goods that were never seen before. Don't fail to attend the chance of a lifetime. This is the Boston Store's first semi-annual inventory sale, and they mean to make it a monumental day for the Boston Store.

Mayor Rohrer's Veto.

The common carrier ordinance passed by the council a few weeks ago, was returned without the mayor's signature at the meeting Monday evening. His objections were as follows:

The increase in rates of transportation: the demand of the public for cheaper rates; that it does not require owners to put the numbers of vehicles in a conspicuous place, and pro-vide a penalty for the same.

These are the main objections. The mayor recommends the passage of an ordinance similar to that of Omaha, and recommends rates as follows:

Conveying one passenger and hand-baggage within two miles, 25 cents; a longer distance, 50 cents; 150 pounds of baggage, same distance, 25 cents; children under six years of age, in care of any person, free; under, tweive years, in care of any person, two miles, 15 cents; over two miles, 25 cents; by the hour, stopping as often and as long as desired, for first hour $1, and additional hours 75 cents.

subject and see if they can satisfy the mayor The Electric Motor Extensions. "I guess we had better go a little bit slow." remarked an official of the electric motor company yesterday. "The council has ordered Pierce street paved from Stutsman to Oak, and that it something that interests us. We have already distributed our iron along that street for, our extention, but if they are going to pave it we will have to make a change, for we can not lay a T rail on paved streets. We would have to secure a single rail. The would, of course, make a little delay. However, I think we will have that line running by September 1. We will also equip the Main street line this fall, and I am quite sure that we will not run any and I am quite sure that we will not run any horse cars except on the transfer line next winter. How would it look too have the winter. How would it look too have the cars run down Pearl street and come u Main! No, I don't say that will be done but I just happened to think of it. Have your old furniture upholstered, goods new. R. Morgan, 732 Broadway. IT FAILS TO WORK IN IOWA Eighty-Three Joints in a Town of Fifteen Thousand.

"Eighty-three internal revenues licenses to sell liquor in Keokuk were granted during the last quarter," said a gentleman from Keokuk, Ia., to a Kansas City Times reporter. The speaker was Mr. A. Nagle, and he has lived in Iowa all his life.

"But I thought Iowa was a prohibition state," ventured the reporter.
"So it is," seid Mr. Nagle. "We used to have about fifteen saloons before prohibition prevailed, but now we have, according to the revenue reports, eighty-three places where you can get beastly drunk."

"What is the population of Keokuk?"
"About 15,000. We used to get enough revenue to pave streets and make other public improvements. Now we get nothing "Do the 'joints,' as you call them, run wide open?"

"Of course. And they have nothing to pay except government license. Eighty-three places where they sell liquor is perhaps under the count. Of course, eighty-three persons don't take out a government license to sell liquor and don't sell it. It is probable that when so many men are violating the law, more are violating the federal law. You can't tell how many illicit dives and bootleg industries are in operation beside the eighty-three persons who bought their stamps."
"How do they run in a prohibition state like Iowa?"

"In Keokuk and in all the Mississippi river towns of Iowa, as well as in the interior towns of any size, the law is not enforced and cannot be enforced. We are cursed with joints which pay no revenue to the city, county or state, and if one of them is indicted a jury acquits the proprietor. It is the same way in Dubuque, Clinton, Muscatine, Burlington, Fort Madison, as well as Keokuk These towns have five times as many drinking places as they had before prohibition went into effect. Every river town in Iowa had a brewery which supplied saloons and furnished a revenue to the state beside giving employment to hundreds of workingmen. The breweries have been driven across the river into Illinois. Their they pay their taxes, employ their men and ship the beer to points in Iowa that don't pay a cent of license except that to Uncle Sam. There are men in Keokuk who have liquor houses across the river at Hamilton, Ill., who have grown rich bottling and casing liquors and ship-ping them to Iowa points. We get all the whisky we want and none of the revenue, not even the power of regula-

Instead they found their saloons multiplied by five and no revenue whatever. They are thinking now, and the recent elections on that question in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Massachusetts have set them thinking.
